

Existing law creates the Upper Hurstville Security District in Orleans Parish.

Existing law authorizes the city of New Orleans to collect a parcel fee on the property within the district in order to fund augmented security within the district boundaries. Existing law requires the implementation of the fee to be voted on by the registered voters of the district at an election held in accordance with the La. Election Code. Existing law further provides that the parcel fee may be renewed if approved by a majority of the registered voters of the district voting on the proposition.

Prior law required that an election on the question of renewal could be held only at a mayoral primary election. New law removes this requirement and authorizes renewal of the fee at any election held in accordance with the La. Election Code.

Effective upon signature of governor (May 26, 2010).
